The Zentralkonstruktionsbuero (ZKB) Berlin, Bauerstrasse, has designed railroad car tipplers. The construction of the tipplers, however, has now been postponed because the program to build 1,500 cars at Niesky, Niederlausitz, has been stopped because of material shortages. Steel plate is the item in shortest supply. The order for the cars came from the Buero fuer Wirtschaftsfragen, but Russian reparation deliveries have now been given a higher priority. If tipplers are needed at a later date, a design which has been perfected by the Poles will be used instead of that made by ZKB.
